Coaching Planning Action

When you're ready to take the next step in your organization's fundraising and service journeys, Bold Leading can put you on the right track. I help nonprofits raise more money, work more effectively and develop strategies for reaching the next level.

And the truth is, it's not as far away as you might think. I'll help you get there with an experienced, third-party perspective, insightful and judgment-free coaching and comprehensive operational streamlining.

Being Bold does not mean you have to go in an entirely different direction or even get very far outside of your comfort zone. It simply means recognizing the next logical step toward improved fundraising and sustainability, taking it and following through. I'll be your guide. Your nonprofit organization has the potential to be whatever you want it to be.
